

Aluvision Inc. is a dynamic and growing company that specializes in high-end aluminum design solutions for booth building, showrooms and displays. A committed team ensures top performances for customers around the world. To further support our growth we are looking to expand our team with an:

CNC MACHINE OPERATOR

YOUR POSITION

- You are responsible for programming and operating our CNC machine.
- You monitor quality on both small and large production runs.
- You carry out tests and make the most out of each profile.
- In general, you're focused on accuracy and detail so that subsequent operations can be performed smoothly.

REQUIREMENTS

- You got a technical degree in high school and a first successful experience as a CNC machine operator.
- You are a skilled CNC programmer.
- Affinity with aluminum is a plus.
- You are detail oriented and have an eye for continuous improvement.

OUR OFFER

- A challenging and permanent job in a fast growing and international environment.
- An open corporate culture where innovation and customer-oriented thinking prevail.
- A responsible job with room for initiative and the possibility of taking a variety of training courses.
- An enthusiastic team of talented co-workers.
- An appropriate compensation in accordance with knowledge & experience, supplemented with benefits.

INTERESTED?

Do you want to be part of a winning team and the exciting world of design solutions? Then don't hesitate to send us your resume and motivation letter via annelies@aluvision.com! Looking for more information? You can find us at www.aluvision.com or call our offices at (470)-252-3500.

