

Looking for a place where you can think outside the box? Where you can be part of a company that knows developing an awesome team makes all the difference? Where each day brings a new challenge? Join a growing company that has continually evolved for over 15 years with an innovative vision and supportive culture.

Aluvision Inc. specializes in high-end aluminum design solutions for booth building, showrooms and displays. A committed team ensures top performances for customers around the world. To further support our growth we are looking to expand our team with a:

PRODUCTION TEAM LEADER

DUTIES & RESPONSIBILITIES

- You directly supervise 6-10 employees and coordinate the manufacturing process in all areas, including but not limited to: CNC machine, aluminum cutting machine, press machine, general assembly work and warehouse.
- Apart from supervising our shop, you also work hand in hand with the team.
- You process work orders in a project-driven environment, therefore you always have a good overview of current and future orders and you're able to meet all deadlines.
- You are responsible for planning and establishing work schedules and assigning work orders according to everyone's particular skills.
- To continually meet our high-quality standards, you provide technical assistance and training for current and new shop employees on a daily basis. Thanks to your expertise we can create strong, independent workers. You also create a proper awareness for safety policies.
- Input towards optimizing our production process and warehouse organization is strongly recommended.
- You report directly to our Plant & Operations Manager.

KNOWLEDGE, SKILLS & ABILITIES

- You have a minimum of 5 years of experience with manufacturing/assembly in a project driven and deadline-oriented environment. Previous experience within the trade show industry is highly recommended.
- You're adept at coordinating a team of shop employees, but still want to be practically involved in the manufacturing process as well.
- You are characterized by a good mechanical aptitude, proper understanding of drawings and prints and attention to detail.
- You have excellent time management skill, never lose a deadline out of sight and are able to act proactive and controlled towards changing work schedules and deadlines.
- You have strong communication skills, both verbally and written, and are familiar with MS Office.

WHAT CAN WE OFFER YOU?

- A challenging and permanent job in a fast growing and international environment.
- An open corporate culture where innovation and customer-oriented thinking prevail.
- A responsible job with room for initiative and the possibility of taking a variety of training courses.
- An enthusiastic team of talented co-workers.
- An appropriate compensation in accordance with knowledge & experience, supplemented with benefits.
